Dear Members and Friends,

Now is the time of the year when all genealogists can adapt that which has been learned thru library research in your own hometown, attending workshops, seminars and monthly meetings, speaking with relatives and writing many letters in order to ply that knowledge toward the legwork that is about to ensue over the summer months.

We're all living in time capsules. . . step back in time.

- o visit the old homestead;
- o research in the dusty records of the old courthouse;
- o copy tombstone inscriptions from many a cemetery;
- o what clues of the days gone by did great-grandma stow away in that trunk from the 'old country'?
- o And, where's the family bible?

Awaken the interest of family history in your older relatives by taping the wonderful home-spun yarns that are just waiting to be shared with anyone who will listen . . . better known by the older generation as 'whipper-snappers'. By recording the family stories of a generation past, your ancestor's memories will be told as tho they were as vivid as yesterday and will live on for the generations of the future.

Sincerely,

Ralyne E. Westenhofer
President

"THE CALL OF DUTY"

by Clifton O. Duty

At first, the name DUTY may seem unusual. The ordinary person will say that he or she never met one. However, they do exist, in the United States and other countries. In Scotland, the name is Duthie; in England, it is Duty; in Germany, it is Dutz; in Italy, it is Dioti; and it is sometimes spelled Dutey, Dutty, Duddy, Dutie, and many people know, of course, Howdy Doody.

The Mormons contribute a great deal to our genealogical knowledge, and the name Duty is familiar to them, for Mary Duty (William, Moses), born around 1740, married Aesel Smith, and their grandson, Joseph Smith, Jr., was the founder of the Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter Day Saints at Palmyra, New York. Mary came from the New England Dutys, whose patriarch was William Duty, 1658-1738. He is buried in Rowley, Essex County, Massachusetts. His descendants are now scattered all over the United States. (See page 3, third paragraph, for possible origin of William Duty of Rowley).

The Comanche Indians know the Duty name, for Lucinda Duty, of Knox County, Indiana and Coles and Edgar Counties, Illinois, was the grandmother of Quanah Parker, the last fighting chief of Comanches in Texas and Oklahoma. Lucinda married Silas Mercer Parker, of Illinois, and her widowed mother, Sally, married Silas' father, a widower, John Parker, preacher, sometimes known as "Hi Johnnie". The Parkers established Parker Fort in Limestone County, Texas, which was raided by Comanches on 19 May 1836. Cynthia Ann Parker, daughter of Silas and Lucinda, was captured, and later married her captor, Peta Nocona, the chief. Their son, Quanah (Fragrance) loved his mother, and took the name Parker. He and Cynthia Ann are buried in Fort Sill, Oklahoma, and his photo is found in the Smithsonian Institute in Washington, D. C.

A widow, Ann Duty, was in Fairfax County, Virginia as early as 1751, with her family which included sons Thomas, Matthew, Richard and William. Thomas stayed in the area, and died in Loudon County, Virginia, adjacent to Fairfax County, around 1793 (it took years to settle his estate). By 1761, according to a land deed in Fauquier County, Virginia, William Duty, his wife, Caty, and Joseph Hackney, sold a piece of land. The deed stated that William and Caty were residents of "the Province of North Carolina". It was about this time also that land transactions in Bute, Granville and other counties in North Carolina were made by William, Matthew and Richard Duty. The three brothers left wills in these counties, with death dates as shown: Matthew, Caswell County, 1782. Richard, Granville County, 1794/5. The writer's William, Chatham County, 1815. Among others, William named in his will his wife, Catren, and sons Thomas, Russell, William and Matthew. Thomas and Russell left families in North Carolina and around 1797 removed to Russell County, Virginia, where they each married again. Today, Thomas has many, many descendants in Buchanan County, (and other counties) in Virginia, and in Mingo County, West Virginia. There are many Dutys in these two states.

As the United States expanded, sons of the three North Carolina Dutys began to move to the frontiers. One Solomon, son of Matthew, went to Texas via Tennessee and Arkansas, and joined Stephen F. Austin. One of Solomon's sons, Joseph, married Louisa Turner, established the Duty Ranch astride the line of Travis and Bastrop Counties, and left many Duty descendants in that area. Reunions are held in Bastrop County, near Austin. There are many stirring tales of bravery about these Texas Dutys.

Other sons of the three North Carolina Brothers removed to Tennessee, especially to Sumner County, and made their mark. In turn, their sons moved to Arkansas, Texas, Louisiana, and other frontier lands. (Note: As genealogists know, it was easier in those time frames to obtain information on the males in the family. However, many gems have been uncovered by tracing the female members).

"THE CALL OF DUTY"

Back to New England. Two major lines were established in Ohio and West Virginia (Then Virginia). Ebenezer Duty went to what is now Cleveland, Ohio, around 1808. His story is told in a little book by Aline Beaumont Duty, of Cleveland. He and his descendants had many firsts: Brick factory; ice house; and trolleys. One of his daughters, Persis, married Rogers Platt Spencer, and from this union was born Spencer Business Colleges, and Spencerian penmanship. Ebenezer descends from William of Rowley.

Andrew Woodbury Duty came to Tyler County, Virginia (WV), married Martha Ankrom, and had a number of children. Descendants still live in Tyler and nearby counties. Many of them are professional people. Andrew descends from William of Rowley.

Philip Duty, a grandson of Richard Duty who died 1794/5 in Granville County, NC, established a line of Dutys in what is now Red River County, Texas. Their story is well told and documented in the book, "Converging Paths" by Thelma Duty McKinney of Fort Worth Texas, who lives with her husband, Bud, in the suburb of Richland Hills.

I would be remiss if I did not mention the great work done by Agnes McWhorter, descendant of Joseph Duty and Louisa Turner (Matthew, Solomon). Agnes and her Duty cousins and others organized the Duty reunion in Bastrop County for several years. That strand of Texas Dutys owe her many thanks for her diligent research, especially in Loudon and Fairfax Counties, Virginia. She identified, tentatively, widow Ann Duty (1751 in Fairfax) as Ann Littleton, and her husband as an older Thomas Duty, not heretofore mentioned. We miss not only her energetic work, but her beautiful smile and positive attitude.

One little story of the Louisiana Dutys: Is it any wonder that Ruffin Pleasant, son of Benjamin Franklin Pleasant and Martha Washington Duty became governor of Louisiana? And speaking of coincidences: My mother, Linny Pearl Hollis, was born 1882 in Union Parish, LA....and Dutys were in this parish before the Hollises! My distant cousins from NC. Her mother was Sarah Ann Crow, and my great aunt, Elizabeth Crow, married into the Pope family, some of whom were ancestors of our first President, George Washington.

Now for my line of Dutys, with some mention of their wives, as I know it. The line, some of which is tentative, goes like this.

1. (Thomas ?) Duty = Ann (Littleton?)
2. William Duty = Catherine Russell
3. William Duty = ?
or
Matthew Duty = Zylpha
(1)
4. Matthew Duty* = Anna Barton*
(2) Sarah Jane Cross
(1813-1886)
5. Elijah Teague = (1) Elizabeth Rachel Reeder*
Duty* (2) Catherine ?
(1840- ?)
6. *Sylvester Duty = (1) Donna Melissa Cruse
(1866-1935) (2) Linny Pearl Hollis *
6. *Clifton Otis = Dixie Jean Barker

"THE CALL OF DUTY"

As you can see, there are gaps in my knowledge, generation 1 and 3. Recall that two of my old William's sons went to Russell County, VA, around 1797. Brothers my Matthew Duty (4) was born 15 April 1813 in North Carolina, and generation 3, Matthew and William, were in Indiana by 1820 (census). This accounts for the four sons of William who died 1815 in NC. Richard Duty was in Knox County, Indiana in 1820. He was the son of Matthew Duty who died in 1782 NC, and in 1820, there were 10 people in his household. Of the two brothers, in 1820 Matthew had 9 and William had 8 persons. William had one male under 10 years of age, and Matthew had three males under 10. Thus either could have been the father of my great grandfather, Matthew Duty, who was born 15 April 1813 in North Carolina and died 9 August 1886 and is buried in the old Cottonwood Primitive Baptist Church Cemetery, Section 3.

The 1850 Census of Posey County, Indiana has listings and residence areas that indicate that the father of my Matthew is probably William Duty, and not his brother, Matthew. The 1850 Census of Posey County shows Matthew Duty, age 76 and wife Zylpha, age 59/69 b. NC living "next door" to a Matthew P. Duty, age 37, b. TN, in MARRS TOWNSHIP. In the same census, Matthew Duty, b. 1813 NC and wife Anna(Barton) were in Robinson Township. This is my Matthew, and his age was also shown as 37. Confusing. However, this is the one indication that my great-great grandfather is, in fact, William Duty. I have no idea as to his wife's name, except that several people have pointed me towards EDWARDS. Several Dutys and Edwards married. If William Duty was my grandfather (g-g), then he is the one in Posey County that probably died between 1840 and 1850. I could have nailed him, if he had only lived until 1850!

(In our third trip to Great Britain, my wife and I visited Beverley, East Yorkshire, England, and motored to the area where Rowley village once stood. Left there is the dear little church and cemetery; the Manor of Rowley; and the vicarage. In 1638, the minister of Rowley, Ezekiel Rogers, had words with his bishop, and moved to Massachusetts Bay Colony in the New World. He established the town of Rowley, Essex County, Mass. Incidentally, he brought the printing press with him. A year later, the town of Beverly was established. Old Dutys were in these two places in America in the late 1600's. I think their ancestors came from Yorkshire. The Mormon International Genealogical Index lists many Dutys in Britain, going back to 1400-1500, with a number of them in Yorkshire, Lancashire, Cumbria and other shires. This paragraph would have fitted better into the second paragraph on page one, I know.)

My Matthew Duty, with his second wife, Sarah Jane Cross, was in Posey County in 1860, but by the 1870 Census, he was in Galatin County, Illinois, along with these children, some grown with families of their own: Elijah, Daniel, Timothy, Minton, Vandalia, Lucretia, Malinda, and Matthew, Jr. They lived in Township 8, Range 9, New Market and Cottonwood. An A. H. H. Duty, age 19, born Indiana, lived in New Haven. He is not readily identified. Many other Dutys with families lived in other counties in Illinois by 1870. My father, Sylvester, was a four year old boy, living with his parents, Elijah and Elizabeth Rachel Reeder Duty, in New Market.

Related names of the 1800's: BARTON, PELT, CRUNK, CULLEY, DOWNEN, WADE, CROSS, HENSON, WILLIAMS, CRUMP, RIDENOUR, BOWERS, MINOR, WILSON, CHESCHEIR, MERRELL, MARRIOTT, KERR, CARROLL, ANDERSON, MILLS, SMITH, REEDER, RAMSEY, REISTER, GIVENS, CRUSE, DICKEY, CAUSEY, BRUCE, WOOD, THOMPSON, REDDICK, JONES, LACY, ZILE, WARREN, COX, GAINES, WALLACE, DEAN, AFFOLDER, BURRELL, NASH, I hope someday to find the parents of Matthew Duty who was born in North Carolina 15 April 1813 and died in Gallatin County, Illinois 9 August 1886. He is buried in Section 3, Old Cottonwood Primitive Baptist Church Cemetery, Township 7 South-Range 9 East, Asbury, near or in the old town of Cottonwood. Clifton O. Duty, 2711 Seabreeze Ct., Orlando, Florida 32805. (407) 425-6942. Will exchange, no cost.

An Alabama Civil War Buff who heads to battle re-enactments on weekends spends his weekday lunch hours in the Birmingham Public Library's Tutwiler Collection of Southern History and Literature.

Not only does he find statistical information on his adopted regiment, but he can also mine the library's rich genealogical materials for tidbits on the soldier he wants to portray.

The clues to what a long-ago soldier wore, sang, and read hide in the pages of books and the celluloid of microfilm in this specialized reference collection. Finding them is a matter of know-how, acquired with the aid of the particularly skilled staff.

In all, the Southern Collection, endowed in 1926, contains more than 70,000 resources on subjects ranging from college football to the works of Faulkner, from census records to Robert E. Lee and Elvis Presley. There's a long wall of shelves filled with state publications, county records, and city histories, and another area devoted to Southern religion. Genealogists come here in great numbers, poring through computerized card catalogs, searching for the faint footprints of their families.

"We're not just concerned with history," says Mary Bess Paluzzi, who coordinates the library's special collections. "We look at Southern life." If you're interested in quilts on the beds, or the home remedies practiced by mountain people, or what food was eaten in Savannah or New Orleans during a certain period, that's what our collection can tell you.

Housed in a library built in 1927 (a new post-modern building now serves general library needs), the Tutwiler Collection goes beyond materials on Alabama. "Our strength is the Old Confederacy-Virginia to Louisiana, including Tennessee," says Paluzzi.

For example, there's the INDEX TO MARRIAGE BONDS FILED IN THE NORTH CAROLINA STATE ARCHIVES, 1741-1868 and the SOUTH CAROLINA LAND GRANTS, 1735-1752 Index. And among the extensive materials on Indian heritage are CHEROKEE ROOTS AND BIBLIOGRAPHY OF THE CHICKASAW.

The atmosphere here is soft and elegant. Rich woods and salmon-covered walls ring study tables with work lamps. Wrapping around the room are 16 recently restored murals depicting outstanding characters from world literature. They were painted by New York artist Ezra Winter in the 1920's.

The Tutwiler Collections of Southern History and Literature is housed in the Linn-Henley building, adjacent to the Birmingham Public Library. The collection is available Monday and Tuesday, 9 a.m. to 8 p.m.; Wednesday thru Saturday, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.; and Sunday 2 p.m. to 6 p.m. For more information, write the library at 2100 Park Place, Birmingham, Alabama 35203 or call (205) 226-3665.

A TRIP TO EUROPE AND A CLIMB IN THE ALPS
by Charles Hoffman

The following article was written by my father and published in THE WATCH WORD, a monthly magazine published in the interest of employees of the Elgin National Watch Company.

- - - - -

I left Elgin near the end of June, 1920 with my two children, Billy and Betty. We stopped at Buffalo and visited Niagara Falls, then went by train to Albany, from where we took the boat down the Hudson river to New York City. There is beautiful scenery on this river journey, and the trip is well worth while.

In New York we were met by Ernest SCHEIDEGGER, once an employe of the old Finishing room. While in New York we visited Central Park, Coney Island and other interesting points.

We left New York early in July on the "Kronland." We certainly had some dandy weather while on the ocean. Scarcely anyone was seasick and nearly everybody was full of "pep."

After eight days at sea we landed at Southampton, England, took the express to London and from there went to Woolwich, which is twenty miles outside of London. At Woolwich, we stopped at the home of my brother-in-law and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harry HUDSON. Woolwich has the largest arsenal in England. During the war more than 40,000 people were employed there. The arsenal was a constant target of Zeppelins during the conflict, but the airships never inflicted any damage on the plant. We stopped in Woolwich for about two weeks, then, after visiting London and its parks, we all left for West Calder, Scotland, between Edinburgh and Glasgow.

In West Calder we made our home with my father-in-law and mother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William HUNTER. They certainly did their utmost to entertain us. The best of everything was none too good for us. We visited Glasgow and Edinburgh during our stay in Scotland. Scotland is a hilly country, very rich in coal. We left Edinburgh in the fore part of August and went direct to Paris. After two days of sightseeing in Paris we went to St. Imier, Switzerland, my old home. It was ten-thirty at night when we arrived there, tired but happy to be together with old relatives and friends after thirteen years of absence. Oh, what a time we had that first night! It will be well remembered by all of us.

I have six sisters and one brother, all but two of whom were married. We had plenty of places to visit during the next two months. We traveled a great deal and visited some of those magnificent summer resorts which are noted the world over, including Berne, Zurich, Basel, Lucerne, Lausanne and Geneva.

On the sixteenth of September a party of about twenty of us left Belfort, France by bus to visit the battle fields of the World War. We traveled five days and saw about all a person would like to know of war and its misery. We spent one day around Verdun.

On September 22 I went to Lyon, France. Lyon is a great industrial center, especially as regards silk, embroideries and machinery. At the time I was in Lyon a great industrial exposition was in progress. While in Lyon, I stayed in the home of my dear friends, Mr. and Mrs. Ed LECOULTRE. The former was once employed on the punch and die job in the Machine department and is well known among the boys.

I was back in my old home in Switzerland by the end of September to stay a few days, and then went off again to visit other interesting points. The children were with me most of the time. It didn't take them long to learn to talk French with the native children and both had the best times of their lives.

On the fifth of October we left for Lucerne to visit my brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Leon BROYE. Lucerne is one of the prettiest cities in Switzerland, situated in the center of the Alps and a starting point for numerous Alpine tourists, particularly those who are looking forward to beautiful scenery and anxious to do mountain climbing.

My brother-in-law and sister, both being expert mountain climbers, we decided to make the ascent of the Wieseestock, 2738 meters and the Engelbergerstock, 2806 meters. After waiting for a few days for proper weather conditions we decided to get started on the morning of October 8 (1920). We left Lucerne at 6 o'clock and, after a short ride on the lake, we arrived at Stans and took the cog railroad to Engelberg. Engelberg is the last town in the valley and is almost surrounded by high mountains. It is a regular summer resort, much frequented by American tourists.

After a brief rest and some refreshments we started the long, steady climb. I was a little short-winded at first, but soon became used to the work. We met quite a few tourists going up and some coming down. The weather was in our favor. The atmosphere became clearer right along and we could see for miles and miles in the distance. The only sounds to be heard were the bells ringing on cows and goats. Up to 1800 meters the vegetation is fairly good. But from then on you can't see even a tree - nothing but rocks and snow.

We arrived at the Alpine club cabin "Titlis," at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, a little tired, but glad that the first step of our journey was over. The Alpine club cabins have been built in various sections of the Alps by the Swiss Alpine Club and are so situated that one can make quite a few ascents from each point. There were fifteen tourists in "Titlis" the night we stayed there.

After a good supper we were ready to retire. The bed consisted of straw, hay and blankets. It felt quite hard at first, but soon everybody was sound asleep. At about 3 o'clock the following morning all the guests arose, and, following a hearty breakfast, were ready to start to the right or the left, as their paths led them.

It was a little foggy when we started out that morning, but the fog soon cleared nicely. It was about daybreak when seven of us started for the Wieseestock. The walking was hard, over rocks, ice and snow. We arrived at the summit about 10 o'clock.

The high altitude seemed to affect me a little, but I managed to keep up with the bunch. We certainly had a nice view all around us, and our hard work was well rewarded.

After a little rest and refreshment, we all were ready to go down from the summit of the Wieseestock and up the Engelbergerstock, which was only half a mile away. But that half-mile was long, as we had to zigzag and go over a small glacier and plenty of fresh snow. At 1 o'clock we were at the top of the Engelbergerstock. The wind had changed and was cold and strong, and we even had a little snowstorm.

The journey down was an easy matter, although we had to be very careful at certain places on the descent.

In the middle of October we went to Paris and from there to LeHavre, where we boarded ship for the United States. It was hard to leave our loved ones behind, but we always hope to have another such trip. We came back on the "Paris," the best boat of the French line, and in less than six days we were in New York. The sea was rough part of the time and the air cold, so we had to remain inside most of the trip back. Everybody on board seemed to be tired and glad to be on the way to the good old U.S.A.

We arrived in Elgin, in the last of November, glad to see friends again and ready for business.

It was a great trip for us all and I only regret that the children were too young to fully realize its value.

submitted by Elyzabeth HOFFMAN HEMPHILL

NOTE: My mother, Jeanette HUNTER, was born in Scotland and met my father in Elgin, Illinois. They were married in 1911. She died in 1918. They had planned this trip to introduce themselves and their children to their respective families. He decided to make the trip, after her death, even though my brother was only six and I was eight.
