Spring 1996

Dear Members:

Is it too early to say good-bye to winter? It's been spring now for over a month. Even though I'm a city girl, I was raised by parents who grew up on farms. So, when the trees start budding, something instinctively in me says it's time to turn the soil and sow the seeds. How about you?

This seasonal fresh start has been going on throughout time-remembered, long before the written word. Whatever their religious beliefs, our ancestors found ways to celebrate and begin anew at this time of year as well. An old European custom marked March 25th as New Year's day. Many farm accounts and diaries started then. Plans for the year's crops had been laid out, the ground-breaking would begin, the homestead was freshened up after the long winter doldrums. I found a charming book in the genealogy department the other day. It's the "Diary of an Early American Boy, Noah Blake, 1805" written by Eric Sloane. Noah was only fifteen, but we observe his coming of age as he chronicles the farm chores of spring and summer.

So too, this is the season when the Central Florida Genealogical Society starts fresh. We've just held our election of officers and board members, and the installation will be in May. It's been an exciting year in large part because your response has been positive. This means that our new board needs to buckle down quickly to work and is expected to be more productive. We briefly pause now to reflect on the achievements of the last year, set parameters for next year's budget, restructure committees to reflect the current methods used in genealogical research and in organization workflow, and lay the groundwork for a long range plan. In all of these areas your input is welcome.

Before a financial development committee can raise funds, the projects that need funding have to be identified. You've already read some of my thoughts on the function of a genealogical society to publish records that will be useful to the genealogical community and then offer them for resale. This will happen by cooperative effort. Some will extract data, even when it doesn't benefit their own research. Others are capable and ready to digitize it. Still more will plan, pull together and edit a final product. Each effort requires volunteers. As Gramma used to say, "The more hands the lighter the load." We realize today that a small group of five just can't spare the time and energy to tackle every facet of a publication. Our cemetery and courthouse committees have been coming up with good ideas this past year. Now we need to break ground on them.

As you go about your travels this summer and review the books and papers you get the most from, take a minute to identify which type of publication is useful to you. Then let me, or a board member know. We'd like to have a bountiful harvest next fall.

Sherry S. Mertz, President

Obituary of Elder A. Hatfield

He was born September 25, 1835, and died March 6, 1920; lived 84 years, 5 months and 10 days. Elder Hatfield received a hope in Christ in 1853 and joined the Primitive Baptist Church, called Enon, located in Mate Creek, Logan County, West Virginia, and was baptized by Elder John Ferrell on the fifth day of July, 1853. Elder Hatfield had a call to the ministry and the church gave him license to preach on the tenth day of November 1868. He then moved his membership to the Pond Creek Church, Pike County, Kentucky; then was ordained by Elders John Ferrell and James Williamson, on the eleventh day of July, 1869. Elder Hatfield preached for 51 years and 5 months. The last text he ever used was Genesis, second chapter and seventh verse: "Th Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground, etc." He was wonderfully blessed to preach Jesus and resurrection of the dead. Brother Hatfield was a faithful minister; he would always leave his worldly affairs and go to his meetings. He was married to Polly Runyon August 2, 1855 and unto them were born fourteen children; twelve living and two dead. Brother and Sister Hatfield lived to see their fourth generation. Their grandchildren were one hundred and eighteen in number; their great-grandchildren, one hundred and fifteen, and their great-great-grandchildren, fourteen. To fill the request of their children, I will say a few words about their mother, Polly Hatfield. She was born January 25, 1839 and died March 15, 1920; lived 81 years, 1 month, 10 days. She joined the Primitive Baptist Church September 18, 1892, and was baptized by Elder W. J. May. These two old people lived together 64 years, 7 months, 2 days. Their home was a home for brethren and sisters. Their loss with us and their children and many friends is great. While we miss them here, we feel sure that our loss is their gain, for we believe that when the last trumpet shall sound that their mortal bodies will be raised immortalized and be just like Jesus to dwell with Him Forevermore.

J. D. Riffe

Peach trees were scattered everywhere and they were always sweet. One was an "Indian peach" with solid red flesh when ripe. The stone was small and Dad liked to carve small monkeys and squirrels from those stones. All the peaches were "cling-stone" so Dad had a ball selecting those stones. Apples were all down in the orchard below the house. They were large and yellow with brown specks — and called "horse-apples" and they were real good to eat. There was also a crabapple tree in front of the house which had large fruit which were good to eat. The pear tree was 80 feet tall with the sweetest fruit I ever ate. You could not pick that tree but you had to wait for the fruit to fall to the ground. Both my sister and I tried to plant pear cores to get seedlings, but neither of us succeeded. Ma CHEEK dried all her fruits (peaches, pears, and apples) on 12 foot long screens, covered by 12 foot long screens, in the sun. Since trees were never sprayed, all the relatives helped to cut out worms. I mostly worked the apple-peeler. Most of the fruit was canned.

Ma CHEEK was a tolerant soul. I used to pull her apron strings and it's a wonder she didn't whack me one! We would hug and talk about how good we were, and she'd always say "we're so good, we're almost preachers!"

Ma CHEEK also often said "I kivver the ground I stand on". She used the old English work "kivver" for cover, but only in that phrase. Her pronunciation was half between "kivver" and "cover" but she did "kivver" the ground she stood on for sure. She was a gentle soul but people didn't put things over on her like they did Papa CHEEK. She also called paper bags — "Pokes" and the burlap bags were "croaker pokes" because that's what you put frogs in when you went frogging! She also used the expression — "don't buy a pig in a poke" — meaning don't blindly go buy something.

Papa CHEEK loved melons — any kind of melons. In the garden next to the watermelon vine, he'd put an old wash tub filled with water and honey. A little leakage created a big sweet melon. He also liked cider. There was a manual-type mill in the shade of a big pecan tree next to the smoke house. All the "locals" used it as well as the CHEEKs. One day Papa CHEEK got pretty drunk on some hard cider — "it was hot and the cider was cold"! He never drank liquor, smoke or chewed tobacco because Ma CHEEK was very allergic to tobacco smoke. I never heard him say a swear word either.

He probably made several fortunes at the mill — but was not a good business person. He was most generous and would lend or give anything he had, to anyone, most of which was never returned. He would only say "they must have needed it more than I did".

When Dad was a child (? Age), Ma CHEEK sent him and his brother Bunyon to the field to plant beans. They wanted to go fishing instead so they put all the beans in one hole. Ma CHEEK would laugh about it in later life but I'll bet she sure was made-as-hops when she saw the beans come up!

Papa CHEEK had a grist mill, and a wheat mill which was redone by Uncle Crook, planing mill, turning mill, cotton gin, and a saw mill. I could show you a large house in Roswell that still has the balustrades that were turned in Papa CHEEK's mill. Ma CHEEK was the miller most of the time 'cause she could set those stones just right for corn meal. Many people would not let anyone else grind for them and go fetch her if she wasn't there. She showed me how to rub the meal between the thumb and forefinger to get just the right consistency of "fine and course". She also showed me how to make "angel footprints" in the warm meal. The old Dutch oven we now have in our possession, was hers and cornbread was cooked in it at least once a day. It still smelled of "cracklin' cornbread" the first time we opened it. I also have her "spider" which sat over the coals with a pot on it, her wood paddles and the applebutter paddle - stirrer. I believe Dad made all of them.

After the wheat mill was re-worked, we got golden biscuits because the flour was not bleached. There was an "awful" good taste in them and we wish we could get that unbleached flour today.

Papa CHEEK had portable sawmills (before I came along) which he took around, mostly in south Georgia. At one time he had a deaf colored man as a tree chopper and one night he didn't come back to camp for supper so they went out looking for him. They knew where he should have been — and they found him there, dead from a snake bite. There was a tremendous timber rattlesnake beside him with the head cut off. Being deaf, he couldn't hear the rattle. It seemed to both Papa CHEEK, even later in life.

I have seen Papa CHEEK roll a big pine log at the saw mill with a cant hook when he was eighty years old. Two men with hooks already tried to do that and failed. He couldn't have done it all day long, 'tho. His father was also a miller. He said that his father was about the size of John Henry CHEEK — 5'6" — 140 lbs., and that he could take two bale hooks and lift a 500 pound bale of cotton on his back and walk across the mill floor with it.

Papa CHEEK was a man of many talents. He had a Tannery and made shoes. They were made one way so that they would fit either foot! He also was a Justice of the Peace and a pretty good one. In the small community (as Dunwoodie was in those days) there were just a few cases brought up before him. He did more marrying and always kissed the bride. The law books were handed down to each succeeding Justice of the Peace and one day he was going through an old one and found a $5. bill which was over 100 years old! (and this was the early 1930's). As I remember it had President Madison's picture on one side — or was it Monroe? Memory draweth a blank. I've often wondered what happened to that bill which could be worth a fortune today. He also made and sold mixing bowls. Poplar wood was used because of it's fine grain. I have his curved "adz" he used to carve out the bowls. It's on our mantle above the fireplace.

Aunt Columbia was a character (she was Papa CHEEK's sister), and one day she baked a peach pie with salt instead of sugar. She was head-strong and a bit bossy. I always thought of her as an old-maid school teacher and not until recently did I know that she had married a Harry RAINEY who became the head of a South Georgia College later in life. Her father had the marriage annulled but no one now knows why. She stayed with us in Atlanta for two weeks one summer. One day we had green beans for supper and she ate like a horse (and was skinny as a bean-pole) and kept passing the beans to Dad saying "eat up, when these are gone, we'll get some more" and she never spent a nickel of her own. That got Mom's nanny-goat and was glad when she left.

Uncle Robert (Papa CHEEK brother) lived in Oklahoma and he always needed money which Aunt Columbia would send him, 'tho she wouldn't give a cent to Ma or Pa CHEEK with whom she lived. Ma CHEEK finally packed her off to Uncle Robert's in Oklahoma. (to be continued)

BOOK REVIEW

ROSTER OF CONFEDERATE SOLDIERS, 1861 - 1865

by Janet B. HEWETT, Ed.

Broadfoot Publishing Company, 1995

Wilmington, NC

The Consolidated Index to Compiled Service Records of Confederate Soldiers is part of the National Archives Record Group 109 -- Records of Soldiers Who Served During the Civil War. This index is published on 535 reels of microfilm as the National Archives microfilm publication M253. Currently, this entire index is being published in book format by Broadfoot Publishing Company entitled Roster of Confederate Soldiers, 1861-1865. This will be a multi-volume set consisting of approximately 30 reels per printed volume. Two volumes have already been released and others will be released as completed in the future.

Volume I covers from R. K. A. to G. W. R. Bell.

Volume II covers from H. Bell to Thomas Buett.

Both volumes are available for researchers at the Orange County Public Library Genealogy Collection. The library will continue to purchase all volumes as they are made available by Broadfoot Publishing Company. They may be located in the collection at RG 973.7 Ros.

Hoskin Family Reunion - CFGS Charter member, Betty HUGHSON and her husband Wally helped plan a reunion of Wally's mother's family last year. The HOSKIN family reunion was held at the Pinnacle Inn on Beech Mountain in North Carolina. Some of the family moved into the Inn on Sunday, July 10th and stayed a full week, while others came on different days during the rest of the week. All together, 60 family members attended. Some traveling from California, Arizona, Mississippi, Florida, Georgia, Virginia, Washington, D.C., North Carolina and Canada. The HOSKIN family came from Cornwall, England in 1850 and Wallys' mother and father came to Florida from Canada in 1924. This reunion is held every three years and is scheduled for Canada in 1997.

MY ELUSIVE GAMMERDINGERS . . .

or It pays to review your records

by Betty Jo Stockton

It's always been a joke in our family "How could we possibly lose someone named Maria Christina Carolina GAMMERDINGER?" But we had! I'd been looking for clues to her birthplace for 20 years, when all the time it was filed neatly in my records.

Maria was my paternal great grandmother and I had lots of information about her -- but nothing prior to her arrival in the United States in 1858. There were records in the family Bible giving her birth date, marriage to Fredrich KIESER, dates of birth and christening for the children and the deaths of Maria and Fredrich. We also had pension records, the census giving date of immigration and a letter in ornate German script, from her father signed "your loving father GAMMERDINGER". I'd had the letter translated years ago by a German speaking family friend.

"Dearest Maria! I write to you a little about you and me to save a painful departure. It is something important, to leave your country, your fatherland, father and mother, brother and sister and go live in a foreign country as a stranger. However, the God, who bid Abraham to leave his country to go to a foreign land, His gracious Father's hands will guide and lead you, that is and remains my daily prayer for you, Dear Maria! All your life have God before your eyes to embrace and care for you and that you willingly do no sin against God's command.

My heart hangs with great love for you, so much more as the Carlene herself has sent best regards. Remain, my dear Maria, and watch, that we see each other again in heaven.

Your hourly loving Father GAMMERDINGER"

Horrheim, 12 April 1858

In desperation, I had someone else translate the same letter, and they found, in what the first translator had thought was part of the date, the name of a town -- Horrheim.

I located, with difficulty, the tiny town in the vicinity of Stuttgart, Wurttemberg. With this as a starting point, I wrote to the Church Archives in Stuttgart and hit the jackpot!

They sent, almost immediately, the Family Register page from the Horrheim church records. This was a gold mine -- parents, grandparents, siblings, in-laws, occupations, birth and marriage locations for all of them. From this starting point, I've been able to use films at the Family History Center to take the family back 4 more generations in less than 6 months . . . after sitting on the buried clue for 20 years. Her father Gottlieb GAMMERDINGER had been a school master, living in each town for a very short time. There were records on him in a number of towns.

The moral of this story is . . . go back and review your records occasionally. Now if only I could find something about her husband . . . Fredrich KIESER.

Map Programs

The map world is on the move again. Millennium, the program that gives you year by year boundary changes and historical place happenings in Europe and the Middle East from the year 1000AD to the present, has now been updated again, is now a Windows program instead of DOS and been renamed Cenntennia. It is even easier to use and is a great helpmate for research into European or Middle Eastern ancestors. It is put out by Clockwork Software, Inc., P. O. Box 148036, Chicago, IL 60614. Phone 313-281-3132 and E-mail is Clockwk@delphi.com. There is also a WWW page on the Internet <http://www.clockwk.com>. Call or E-mail for current price.

Parsons has released a new program called Family Atlas. It creates a geographic record (read map) of places and areas important to your family genealogy. It also contains historical articles of events which happened in the same place and on the same dates as the events which occurred with your family. The input is a GedCom file generated by your current genealogy program. From the GedCom file the Family Atlas program then generates a map showing your genealogical geographic history (US only). Neat. I have it on order and will give you a full review at a later date. Parsons $29.00.

While we are on vendors, Parsons has released a maintenance update on Family Origins 4.0. Same time frame Commsoft has released Roots IV maintenance 1.2. Commsoft also promises a Windows (32bit) version of Roots IV more sophisticated than Visual Roots. Family Tree Maker will also release a 32 bit program (read for windows 95) at the same time.

Another map program, DeLorme's Global Explorer, reviewed by Miriam Weiner in the current "Heritage Quest" (Issue #62, Mar/Apr 1996) helps locate that Village in the old country from whence your progenitors fled. It is actually a world Atlas with find capability. It is on its way, so I'll review for you later. $59.00 from DeLorme at (800) 452-5931.

Commsoft (Roots IV and Visual Roots) has teamed up with Palladium Interactive. Together they will release Family Gathering which will be an upgraded Visual Roots. Price is $49.95 with a special price break for current owners of Visual Roots. Improved data entry screens, a spell checker, an instant Web Page publisher plus other on line capabilities will mark this May entry. I'm scheduled for an early release so again I'll let you know more next issue.

Commsoft has released Roots IV maintenance version 1.2. They also promise a Windows (32 bit) version of Roots IV more sophisticated than Visual Roots later this year. Family Tree Maker will also release a 32 bit program (read for Windows 95) this Quarter.

'til next quarter. Erv

MEMBER PROFILES

#1016 - Marian Besst (joined CFGS in 1995) is a native of Northern Ohio, moved to Maitland in 1960 with her husband, Dave and our their four children. She is now a retired Psychiatric RN. She was casually interested in genealogy and at the urging of Marcella Hobbs, took two courses from Ann Osisek and became totally hooked.

Her research has included an old trunk of family letters, pictures, diaries, etc., the Orlando Public Library, The Family History Center, Graveyards, but mostly many letters with requests for information about family members. Most letters brought results making my mailman seem like Santa Claus at times.

Surnames being researched by Marian are Schmid, Stevenson, Brown, Darling, Usher, Studer, Wyssen, and Paine in Ohio, Virginia, Massachusetts, Ontario, Canada, Switzerland and Scotland. [1996]

#1015 - David Besst (joined CFGS in 1995) is a native of Northern Ohio and moved to Maitland in 1960 with his wife, Marian and their four children. He originally worked in aerospace but has spent the last 20 years in the wholesale foliage nursery business. He is currently in the process of retiring in order to have more time for his family and friends and do some serious genealogy work on his family history.

He has a partial family tree on the Besst side which is very helpful, but lacks any significant information on his mothers' side (Jones, Drake). He has visited a number of cemetery plots in Ohio where his father originated, but is completely stymied when it comes to tracing his grandmother, who was an American Indian by the name of Barto (Ojibway Tribe). Ann Osisek got him started in a serious way, and the Family History Center and Orlando Public Library has proved to be good reference sources in his research.

Surnames being researched by Dave are Besst (Best), Beaver, Reamer, Blackledge, Drake, and Jones. Most resided in Ohio and Pennsylvania for many years. The Jones line was a mid-80's transplant from Liverpool, England with the family originating in Wales. [1996]
